19TH CENTURY BIEDERMEIER ROUND WALNUT PEDESTAL TABLE WITH VENEERED STARBURST TOP

$9,600

This early 19th-century Austrian Biedermeier center table presents an elegant balance of architectural restraint and rich natural material. Crafted from warmly toned walnut, the circular top features a striking sunburst veneer pattern, with the grain radiating outward from a central point in bookmatched symmetry. The craftsmanship is particularly evident in the seamless joinery and the deep, even patina that has developed over time.

The tabletop rests on a sculptural baluster-form pedestal, shaped with subtle curves that taper gracefully before meeting a stepped, octagonal base. The base's geometric form echoes neoclassical ideals while adding visual weight and grounding the table with architectural presence. Resting on discreet block feet, the design remains light in silhouette yet stable in structure.

With its refined proportions and restrained ornamentation, this table exemplifies early Biedermeier style, when form was celebrated over embellishment and fine woods took center stage. Ideal as a center table, side table, or entryway statement piece, it brings period sophistication to both traditional and contemporary interiors.
