19TH CENTURY ENGLISH MAHOGANY UPHOLSTERED STOOL WITH CABRIOLE LEGS

$2,250

An English mahogany stool from the 19th century with cabriole legs, ball and claw feet and new custom linen upholstery. Exuding an air of stately English elegance, this 19th-century mahogany stool captures the essence of refined craftsmanship and timeless design. Crafted from rich mahogany, the stool's warm hue and intricate detailing create a captivating visual balance, transforming an everyday furniture item into an aesthetic statement. The stool stands on beautifully carved cabriole legs, renowned for their delicate, flowing lines and distinctive knee carvings. Here, intricate foliage carvings grace the knees, enhancing the overall appeal with their meticulous detailing. This traditional leg design, combined with the mahogany's natural luster, lends the stool an air of sophisticated grace. The ensemble is resting on handsome ball and claw feet. Above these stunning legs is the seat, newly upholstered with custom linen. This material choice complements the rich mahogany, adding a sense of softness and comfort to the piece. The seat's curved design, showcasing a height of 17.75 inches in its center, ensures a pleasing ergonomic experience for the user. Perfect as a functional accent piece or a standalone feature, this English mahogany stool is an embodiment of 19th-century elegance and refined craftsmanship. Its design nuances, from the cabriole legs with foliage carvings to the custom linen upholstery, makes it a must-have for lovers of English antique furniture.
