19TH CENTURY ENGLISH OAK BUFFET WITH FIVE DRAWERS AND TWO DOORS

$14,000

An English oak long buffet from the 19th century with five drawers, two doors, brass hardware and carved feet. Step back into the splendor of 19th-century England with this distinguished oak long buffet. Radiating undeniable antiquarian charm, its lengthy facade blends practicality with grandeur, featuring five neatly organized drawers, set in a unique T-shaped arrangement, accompanied by two generously sized doors. Every drawer boasts brass Chippendale style hardware, lending an added layer of vintage allure. But it's the meticulous details that truly make this piece stand out. Each door panel elegantly flaunts arching accents, hinting at the expert craftsmanship of the era. Opening these doors reveals commodious inner shelves, offering the perfect marriage of style and storage. Anchoring this buffet are the elegant bracket feet, thoughtfully carved, offering both stability and aesthetic appeal. Perfect for larger dining spaces, this buffet would gracefully house dinnerware, while its surface could present a curated selection of antiques, family photos, or even a seasonal floral arrangement. Make a statement in your home with this versatile piece, which harmoniously blends history, functionality, and timeless English craftsmanship.
