19TH CENTURY ENGLISH PINE CRICKET TABLE WITH SINGLE DRAWER AND PAD FEET

$3,995

A charming 19th-century English pine cricket table, notable for its honest craftsmanship and warm patina. The circular top rests on three tapered legs that end in small pad feet — a subtle yet refined detail typical of rural joinery from the period. Beneath the apron, a single drawer with its original wooden knob adds practicality and character to this compact design.

Cricket tables like this were traditionally made for everyday use in country cottages and inns, valued for their stability and ease of movement. The triangular apron construction, visible underneath, ensures durability while preserving a sense of lightness in form. The pine has aged to a rich honey tone, highlighting the grain and wear accumulated over generations of use.

Perfect as an accent or occasional table beside a chair, sofa, or bed, this piece brings warmth and authenticity to both traditional and contemporary interiors.
