19TH CENTURY ENGLISH WALNUT MARQUETRY PEDESTAL SIDE TABLE BY T.H. FILMER & SON

$4,500

This refined 19th-century English pedestal side table is crafted in walnut and distinguished by a striking octagonal top centered by an intricate geometric marquetry design. The surface draws the eye immediately, with a radiating starburst motif laid out in contrasting veneers that create depth, rhythm, and a strong decorative presence. A narrow banded border frames the top neatly and reinforces the crisp outline of the form.

Raised on a turned pedestal with slender dark linear accents, the table rests on three elegantly shaped legs with carved detail and scrolling feet. The base has a graceful, sculptural quality that balances the graphic character of the top, giving the piece both lightness and presence. Its compact scale makes it especially versatile as a side table, lamp table, or occasional table, suitable beside a chair, sofa, or in a layered hall or sitting room.

The underside retains oval trade labels for T.H. Filmer & Son, London, a respected 19th-century cabinetmaking and upholstery firm, adding an appealing note of commercial provenance. Altogether, this is a handsome English walnut table with fine decorative impact, useful proportions, and the kind of craftsmanship that allows it to work easily in both traditional and collected interiors.
