19TH CENTURY FRENCH GREEN PAINTED TÔLE POCKET WATCH WALL CLOCK

$2,250

A 19th century French tôle wall clock designed in a charming pocket-watch form, with an octagonal painted case, ring-form top mount, and ball finial. The shaped case features a scalloped, star-like relief design surrounding the circular clock face, giving the piece a strong architectural and decorative presence. The white enamel dial is marked with Roman numerals and fitted with delicate hands, framed by a decorative metal bezel.

The green painted surface, gilt lining, and aged metal elements give the clock an appealing old-world character. Its compact scale makes it easy to place in an entry, kitchen, study, powder room, or gallery wall arrangement, where it can function as both a timepiece and a decorative object.

The back shows age, surface wear, and an old mounting structure consistent with 19th century tôle construction. The clock has a wonderful decorative presence whether displayed for function or purely as an antique wall accent.
