ENGLISH 19TH CENTURY MAHOGANY CONSOLE TABLE WITH CARVED SWAG DRAWER

$7,995

An elegant English 19th century mahogany console table featuring a long, narrow silhouette and restrained classical decoration. Raised on six tapered legs terminating in block feet, the table is accented by carved rosette blocks at each corner and a beautifully detailed central drawer adorned with a carved floral swag and ribbon motif. The apron displays attractive figured mahogany veneers whose rich grain contrasts subtly with the darker structural elements of the frame and legs.

The proportions are especially appealing, offering substantial length while maintaining a shallow depth that allows the piece to function easily in a variety of interiors. It works beautifully as a console in a hallway or entry, behind a sofa, beneath a large mirror or painting, or even as a narrow serving table in a dining space. The six-leg construction provides both visual rhythm and additional stability across the long span.

The mahogany surface has developed a warm, mellow patina over time, with tonal variation and light surface wear that contribute to the authenticity and character expected from a well-preserved 19th century English piece. The drawer retains hand-cut dovetail construction, further reflecting the craftsmanship of the period.

With its refined decoration, useful scale, and timeless form, this console table blends comfortably into traditional interiors while also pairing well with more collected or transitional spaces.
