ENGLISH 19TH CENTURY PINE HOUSEKEEPER'S CUPBOARD WITH DRAWERS

$8,995

An English 19th-century pine housekeeper's cupboard with paneled doors, drawers, and a warm country house patina. The cabinet is arranged with two upper cupboard doors, two lower cupboard ones, and a central drawer section, creating a practical storage piece with a strong architectural front. The paneled doors feature molded framing, simple brass ring pulls, and keyhole escutcheons, while the drawer section adds both visual rhythm and everyday utility.

The pine has a rich golden tone with visible knots, darker age marks, and natural surface variation throughout. The interior is fitted with open shelving, making the piece well suited for storing linens, tableware, pantry goods, books, or decorative objects. Its scale gives it good presence without being excessively deep, making it easier to place in a kitchen, dining room, mudroom, pantry, or country house interior.

With its useful storage, warm pine surface, and honest 19th-century character, this English cupboard brings both function and texture to a traditional or relaxed interior.
