ENGLISH CAMPAIGN YEW WOOD 1920S SIDE TABLE WITH BRASS ACCENTS AND STRAIGHT LEGS

$2,250

An English Campaign yew wood side table from circa 1920 with brass accents and straight legs. This English Campaign yew wood side table, dating back to circa 1920, encapsulates the refined elegance and practical design characteristic of the period. Crafted from richly grained yew wood, this table boasts a warm, inviting patina that speaks to its age and history. The tabletop, distinguished by its rectangular shape, is adorned with brass accents—a striking central inlay and protective corner pieces—that not only enhance its aesthetic appeal but also pay homage to the traditional craftsmanship of the time. Resting on straight, unadorned legs, the table exudes a simplicity that belies its functional versatility. This understated design allows the natural beauty of the wood and the luster of the brass to take center stage, making it a piece that could easily integrate into a variety of interior decor styles, from traditional to more contemporary settings. Ideal for use as a side or accent table, it could serve multiple purposes—holding a lamp, displaying books or collectibles, or as a convenient spot for a cup of tea. Placed beside a sofa, in a hallway, or even as a bedside table, this English Campaign side table brings a touch of historical charm and elegance to any room, blending seamlessly with both antique and modern furnishings. Its compact size and timeless design make it a versatile addition to a home, offering both functionality and a piece of history.
