ENGLISH JACOBEAN 1690S OAK HIGH BACK ARMCHAIR WITH CARVED DÉCOR AND TURNED LEGS

$10,750

An English Jacobean oak high back armchair from the late 17th century with carved décor. This English Jacobean period oak chair from circa 1690 is a stunning example of the craftsmanship and design from the early 17th century. With its intricate carved back, adorned with floral and geometric motifs, it reflects the bold and ornate nature of the Jacobean style. The turned arms and legs are solid and durable, while the carved seat apron further showcases the detailed artistry of the period. The deep, rich oak patina enhances its historic charm, giving the chair an air of timeless elegance. Ideal for adding a touch of historic sophistication to your home, this Jacobean chair would be a striking piece in a study, living room, or hallway. Its solid construction makes it not only a work of art but also a functional seating option for those who appreciate both beauty and practicality in their furnishings. Whether placed as a statement piece or part of a period-inspired collection, this Jacobean oak chair brings the enduring legacy of 17th-century English craftsmanship into the modern home.
