ENGLISH JACOBEAN STYLE OAK BOBBIN STOOL WITH LINEN UPHOLSTERY

$2,100

An English bobbin stool crafted in the Jacobean revival taste, most likely dating to the early to mid-20th century. The stool features boldly turned bobbin legs joined by matching stretchers on all four sides, creating a balanced and architecturally strong silhouette. The turning is crisp and uniform, characteristic of revival-period craftsmanship inspired by 17th century English forms.

The square seat has been recently reupholstered in a neutral woven fabric and finished with evenly spaced brass nailhead trim along the lower edge. The fresh upholstery contrasts attractively with the dark stained oak frame, allowing the sculptural quality of the turned legs to remain the focal point.

Compact in scale yet visually substantial, the stool functions equally well as a footstool, fireside seat, dressing room accent, or occasional perch. The stretcher construction provides stability while reinforcing the traditional English character of the piece.

A solid and decorative example of early 20th century English revival furniture, combining historical reference with practical versatility.
