ENGLISH VICTORIAN PERIOD 19TH CENTURY BRASS UMBRELLA STAND WITH REMOVABLE PLAQUE

$4,500

An English Victorian period brass umbrella stand from the 19th century, with petit finials, red accents and removable low plaque with handles. Created in England during the reign of Queen Victoria in the 19th century, this brass umbrella stand features four slender cylindrical supports topped by a regular rhythm of petite finials. Two levels of horizontal supports will secure the umbrellas while the lower section showcases a removable red colored pierced plaque with lateral handles, through which the water will be evacuated. Boasting a nicely weathered appearance revealing its nice age and good use, this English Victorian period brass umbrella stand from the 19th century will make for a stylish addition to any home, particularly placed in an entryway of mudroom.
