$2,700

A French wrought-iron guéridon side table from circa 1920 with circular zebra hide top and scrolling tripod base. This exquisite French wrought iron guéridon side table from circa 1920 is a splendid blend of rustic charm and elegant design, making it a distinctive addition to any home. The table features a circular top upholstered in beautiful zebra hide, secured meticulously with a brass nailhead trim that enhances its exotic appeal. This unique top rests on a finely twisted iron pedestal, which gracefully unfolds into a tripod base with scrolling legs, exemplifying the artistry of early 20th-century French metalwork. Its compact size and artistic silhouette make it an ideal choice for use as an accent table beside a sofa, in a hallway, or as a statement piece in a study or library. This guéridon table not only serves as a practical surface for holding drinks, books, or a lamp but also acts as a striking decorative element that attracts attention and sparks conversation, imbuing any room with a touch of history and luxury.
