FRENCH 19TH CENTURY FRUITWOOD COFFEE TABLE WITH BUTTERFLY VENEER AND CABRIOLES

$4,500

A French Louis XV style bleached fruitwood coffee table from the 19th century with butterfly veneer and carved cabriole legs. This elegant French Louis XV style coffee table, crafted in the 19th century from fruitwood, beautifully exemplifies the grace and sophistication of its era. The tabletop is masterfully adorned with butterfly veneer, creating a stunning symmetrical pattern that captures the eye and highlights the natural beauty of the wood. The table's soft, natural hue enhances its intricate details and adds a contemporary touch to its antique character. Supported by cabriole legs, this coffee table epitomizes the curvaceous, flowing lines characteristic of Louis XV furniture, adding a touch of romance and old-world charm to any living space. Ideal for use in a refined living room or as a sophisticated centerpiece in a sitting area, this coffee table offers both beauty and functionality. It provides ample space for serving refreshments, displaying books, or showcasing decorative items. Its historical allure and timeless design make it a perfect choice for those looking to infuse their home decor with a blend of classic style and practical elegance.
