FRENCH FAUX BAMBOO CARVED WOOD WALL MIRROR WITH TURNED DETAILS, CIRCA 1900

$2,200

French faux bamboo wall mirror dating from circa 1900, featuring a warm honey-toned wooden frame carved and turned to imitate bamboo canes. The rectangular frame is articulated with segmented nodes and finished with pointed terminals at the corners, a distinctive detail associated with French faux bamboo and faux bois furniture of the turn of the century.

The mirror retains its light, elegant proportions and works well in both traditional and more relaxed interiors. Suitable for use in an entryway, bedroom, or over a console or commode. The restrained depth allows it to sit close to the wall while still providing strong decorative presence.

A classic example of French decorative woodworking from the period, combining craftsmanship with an informal, naturalistic aesthetic that pairs easily with both antique and contemporary furnishings.
