FRENCH FAUX BAMBOO WALNUT MIRROR WITH TURNED DETAILING, CIRCA 1900

$2,175

A charming faux bamboo mirror in walnut, crafted in France around 1900. This piece showcases the fine proportions and visual lightness associated with French faux bamboo work of the late 19th to early 20th century. The turned frame mimics the natural rhythm of bamboo culms with alternating smooth and ringed segments, enhanced by precisely carved joints and softly tapering finials at the corners.

Its compact, vertical form and warm walnut patina make it an easy addition to both traditional and eclectic interiors. The mirror retains its original backboard, and the glass shows the gentle signs of age expected in a piece of this vintage, contributing to its authenticity and charm.

Ideal in a powder room, entryway, or as part of a layered salon-style wall, this decorative mirror offers a subtle nod to exoticism through the lens of French craftsmanship. A classic example of the faux bamboo trend popular across Europe at the turn of the century, appreciated today for its balance of rustic texture and tailored design.
