FRENCH GILTWOOD SUNBURST MIRROR WITH FEATHERED CARVED FRAME, CIRCA 1920

$4,250

A French giltwood sunburst mirror dating to circa 1920, featuring a richly carved circular frame with repeating feather-form rays surrounding the central mirror plate. The layered design combines an inner band of elongated oval carving with a dramatic outer border of deeply textured radiating elements, giving the piece strong dimensionality and sculptural presence.

Executed in carved wood with gilt finish over a warm reddish undertone, the mirror reflects the enduring popularity of sunburst and neoclassical motifs in early 20th century French decorative arts. The carved feather-like rays create movement around the frame while maintaining a refined symmetry that allows the mirror to function equally well in traditional and more eclectic interiors.

The mirror's scale makes it ideal above a console, chest, mantel, or in a layered wall arrangement. The aged gilding gives the piece warmth and depth, with areas of visible red bole and natural tonal variation enhancing its decorative character.

The mirror retains attractive age and patina throughout, with wear consistent with age and use. The glass shows light age-related wear typical of vintage examples.
