FRENCH NEOCLASSICAL NINE-LIGHT ALABASTER & GILT BRONZE CHANDELIER, 19TH CENTURY

$5,995

A refined 19th-century French chandelier combining neoclassical form with the luminous beauty of alabaster. The circular bowl, carved from pale alabaster with soft natural veining, is suspended from a gilt bronze canopy by a series of decorative chains adorned with elongated classical links. Six candle-form lights are arranged around the perimeter, while three additional lights are set above the alabaster shade, providing both ambient and functional illumination.

The gilt bronze frame is richly cast with acanthus leaves and foliate motifs, its warm patina highlighting the sculptural depth of each detail. The alabaster diffuser emits a gentle, atmospheric glow when lit, enhancing the chandelier's balance of ornament and restraint. A small pinecone finial completes the design, echoing the botanical theme of the frame.

With its harmonious proportions and elegant decorative language, this chandelier reflects the neoclassical revival taste of late-19th-century France. Ideal for a dining room, entryway, or library, it offers a sense of quiet grandeur suited to both traditional and transitional interiors.
