ITALIAN 19TH CENTURY INLAID WALNUT BARLEY TWIST TABLE WITH STAR MARQUETRY

$5,500

An Italian 19th-century walnut occasional table featuring a finely inlaid top centered with a bold geometric star motif. The marquetry combines contrasting tones of walnut and darker woods, arranged in a dimensional, almost tessellated composition that gives strong architectural presence despite the table's modest scale.

The top is framed by a molded edge and chamfered corners, resting on an unusual and sculptural base. Four barley twist legs extend outward in an X-form configuration, joined at a central carved block with a turned stretcher. The twisted elements are deeply carved and well proportioned, giving the table rhythm and movement while maintaining stability.

The surface shows honest age, including patina, small marks, and light wear consistent with use. The marquetry remains intact with minor expected separations typical of period inlay.

This piece works well as:

- A side table

- A hall accent table

- A small writing or lamp table

- A decorative statement in a layered interior

The graphic star top gives it immediate visual impact — much stronger than a standard occasional table of the period.
