ITALIAN EARLY 19TH CENTURY BLEACHED CREDENZA WITH CANTED SIDES DOORS AND DRAWERS

$12,000

An Italian bleached wood credenza from the early 19th century, with canted sides, three drawers over four doors. Created in Italy during the early years of the 19th century, this stunning credenza features a linear silhouette perfectly complimented by a bleached finish. The piece showcases a trapezoidal top sitting above a simple façade flanked with canted sides. A long drawer at the center, showcasing a nail construction revealing its good age, is fitted with Classical style brass hardware. A pair of double doors below opens to reveal a nicely distressed interior. The canted sides each echo this décor and present a smaller drawer and a single door. The back is, of course, unfinished and the ensemble is raised on bracket feet. Boasting a nicely weathered appearance, this Italian bleached oak credenza from the early 19th century will make for a wonderful addition to any home, placed in a living room or dining room.
