LARGE FRENCH 19TH CENTURY BRASS AND STEEL SCALE WITH WEIGHING PANS AND COLUMN

$5,500

A French brass and steel scale from the 19th century with central column and two weighing pans. Embrace the charm and sophistication of the 19th century with this exquisite French brass and steel scale, a testament to the craftsmanship and design sensibilities of a bygone era. This scale, with its central column and pivoted horizontal lever, known as the beam, is a beautiful rendition of balance and precision. The beam is meticulously crafted, with arms of equal length, ensuring accurate measurements and a harmonious visual appeal. Suspended from each arm are the simple weighing pans. The scale is constructed from brass, exuding warmth and a subtle sheen, while steel elements provide structural integrity and a contrasting visual element. The central column serves as the backbone of the piece, grounding it in stability and strength. In a contemporary home, this scale could serve as a striking decorative object on a bookshelf, in a display cabinet, or on a console table. It is a conversation starter, a piece that bridges the gap between functional object and artwork. Whether you are a collector of antique scales, a lover of French design, or someone who appreciates objects with a story, this scale is sure to captivate and inspire.
