LOUIS-PHILIPPE FRENCH WALNUT TILT-TOP WINE TASTING TABLE WITH CARVED PAW FEET

$2,100

A French Louis-Philippe walnut wine tasting table from circa 1820-1850 with tilt top and paw feet. Elevate your space with this charming 19th-century French tilt-top wine tasting table, crafted from beautifully aged walnut. This petite, yet functional piece embodies the elegance of the Louis Philippe style, featuring delicate carvings and distinctive paw-like feet that bring a refined French touch. Designed with practicality in mind, the tabletop tilts upright (bring the height to 27"), allowing it to serve as a compact display piece when not in use or to be tucked away effortlessly, perfect for spaces that value both style and flexibility. Ideal for a cozy corner, this table can function as an intimate wine tasting station in a cellar or as a side table in a living room, where its warm, aged patina adds a welcoming feel. Its size is well-suited for displaying collectibles or serving hors d'oeuvres at a gathering, bringing a taste of French sophistication to any home. This antique wine tasting table is more than a decorative piece; it's a piece of history, offering a glimpse into 19th-century French lifestyle and craftsmanship. The walnut wood, polished by time, enhances its rustic charm while seamlessly blending with both traditional and contemporary interiors. Embrace the heritage and functionality of this French tilt-top table, where history meets modern-day usability, making it a remarkable addition to your collection.
