MID-20TH CENTURY ITALIAN POLISHED STEEL ARMCHAIR WITH BRASS DETAILS

$3,995

This mid-20th century Italian armchair is crafted in polished steel and distinguished by refined brass accents, combining classical references with a modern, architectural structure. The slender metal frame is elegantly curved, forming gently scrolling arms and a supportive, open back composed of vertical rods, lending the chair both visual lightness and structural clarity.

Decorative brass elements appear throughout, including round finials at the crest rail, rosette medallions at the arm terminals, a stylized brass leaf motif beneath the seat, and brass-capped feet. These details introduce a restrained neoclassical note that contrasts effectively with the clean lines and industrial character of the polished steel frame.

The chair features a reupholstered seat cushion, finished in a neutral fabric that complements the metalwork without overpowering it. The proportions are balanced and comfortable, with a slightly elevated seat height, making the chair suitable for use as a dining armchair, desk chair, or occasional seating in both residential and professional interiors.

Reflecting the Italian mid-century interest in revisiting classical forms through modern materials, this chair sits comfortably between neoclassical revival and mid-century modern design. A distinctive and versatile piece, well suited to eclectic, contemporary, or classically informed interiors.
