PAIR OF FRENCH LOUIS XVI STYLE PAINTED DEMILUNE CONSOLE TABLES WITH MARBLE TOPS

$15,600

A pair of French Louis XVI style demi-lune console tables from the 19th century with white veined marble tops, carved aprons, fluted legs and arching cross-stretcher. This exquisite pair of French Louis XVI style demi-lune console tables from the 19th century presents a harmonious blend of elegance and undeniable charm, ideal for gracing the interiors of a classic or contemporary home. Each table is crowned with a white veined marble top, its cool, smooth surface offering a perfect backdrop for decorative items, whether a vase of fresh flowers, a collection of antique books, or cherished family photos. Beneath the marble, the tables boast carved aprons, meticulously detailed with pierced scrolling foliage, hinting at the craftsmanship and attention to detail typical of the period. The distressed off-white painted body, where hints of the underlying wood peek through, adds a layer of warmth and history, making each piece uniquely inviting. The fluted legs, a hallmark of Louis XVI design, lend structural elegance and are connected by an in-curving cross-stretcher with caredv finial in the center, providing stability and an additional visual element of interest. This arching feature not only enhances the aesthetic appeal but also echoes the tables' demi-lune shape, creating a cohesive and balanced design. Positioned against a living room wall, flanking a grand entrance, or serving as a statement piece in a dining area, these tables can seamlessly integrate into various spaces. Their timeless design and refined details make them versatile pieces that elevate the decor while providing a functional surface for display. The pair's classical beauty make them a focal point in any setting, blending seamlessly with both traditional and modern interiors.
