PAIR OF FRENCH MIDCENTURY IRON CANDLEHOLDERS WITH LEAF AND SCROLL MOTIFS

$2,400

Crafted in France during the mid-20th century, this decorative pair of iron candleholders brings a sculptural, nature-inspired elegance to any interior. Designed in mirror image, each piece features five candle cups integrated into a flowing arrangement of hand-forged leaves and curling tendrils. The wrought iron has been left with a dark, matte finish, allowing the detailed forging work and openwork silhouette to take visual precedence. Whether placed above a mantel, framing an entry, or used as tabletop accents, these pieces add both rustic texture and rhythmic movement.

While unmistakably decorative, the design remains functional: the evenly spaced candle cups are raised for balance and allow for an even distribution of candlelight. The symmetrical composition of the pair—each curling outward from a central axis—also creates a visually harmonious presentation when displayed together.

With their lyrical botanical lines and artisanal character, this pair would suit a variety of settings, from French country and English manor styles to more eclectic or romantic interiors. Structurally solid and visually striking, they are equally suited to use or display.
