PAIR OF LARGE FRENCH 1900S IRON LANTERNS WITH RIPPLED GLASS, REWIRED FOR USA

$9,800

Pair of large-scale French iron lanterns, circa 1900, featuring beautifully hand-blown glass with a rippled, wavy texture that adds subtle movement and depth to the design. Each lantern is fitted with four interior lights supported by a simple iron stem, creating a soft, diffused glow when illuminated. The gracefully arched iron supports rise elegantly over the glass panels, giving height and presence while maintaining an airy silhouette. These lanterns are fully rewired for use in the USA.

At 38 inches high and 20 inches in diameter, these are substantial in scale, making them a striking choice for large entryways, stair halls, or above a grand dining table or kitchen island. Their quiet elegance allows them to bridge both antique and modern interiors, adding historic character without heaviness. The combination of undulating glass and ironwork gives a refined but understated architectural quality. Offered as a pair and ready to hang, these lanterns bring scale, height, and texture to any space needing a bold lighting statement.
