PAIR OF NEOCLASSICAL STYLE IRON PLANTERS WITH LINERS AND MYTHOLOGICAL FIGURES

$3,750

A pair of Neoclassical style iron urn planters from circa 1900 with liners and mythological figures. This pair of Neoclassical-style iron urn planters from circa 1900 embodies the grandeur and elegance of a bygone era. Each planter is a masterful representation of Neoclassical artistry, featuring intricate scenes of mythological figures that evoke tales of ancient gods and epic journeys. These detailed scenes wrap around the urns, offering a visual narrative that captivates and enchants. The planters are crafted with a deep, bowl-like basin, perfect for housing a variety of plants. Whether filled with cascading blooms, lush ferns, or sculptural succulents, these urns will transform any flora into a statement piece. The inclusion of liners ensures that the plantings can be easily changed with the seasons or according to your decor needs. Standing on square bases measuring 4.25" wide, these urns provide a stable and prominent display. They can be placed flanking an entryway, adding a touch of classical sophistication to your home's facade, or as focal points in a garden, where they can be admired from afar or up close. In an interior setting, these urn planters can bring a sense of the outdoors in, adding a natural element to spaces like sunrooms, foyers, or beside a window. Their historical motifs and robust iron construction make them not just planters, but pieces of art, imbuing your home with a timeless appeal and an aura of classical beauty. With their combination of historical artistry, functional design, and robust construction, these Neoclassical-style iron urn planters from circa 1900 are more than just home accessories; they are heirlooms that offer both beauty and utility, perfect for the discerning homeowner with an appreciation for classical forms and stories.
