SET OF 10 WALNUT BIEDERMEIER STYLE DINING CHAIRS, CIRCA 1920

$9,600

A refined set of ten walnut dining chairs in the Biedermeier taste, dating to circa 1920. Each chair features a gently curved back with a broad crest rail and a distinctive open splat detail accented with a carved wave motif. The clean, architectural lines and restrained ornamentation reflect the classical clarity associated with early 19th century Austrian and German Biedermeier design, here interpreted in the early 20th century.

The walnut frames display a warm honey-toned finish that highlights the vertical grain, giving the chairs a luminous, almost satin quality. The backs flow gracefully into subtly curved rear legs, while the front legs taper elegantly, lending the set a sense of lightness despite their solid construction. The seats are upholstered in a deep navy velvet, edged with a tonal trim, offering a striking contrast to the warmth of the wood and a tailored, formal appearance suitable for both traditional and transitional interiors.

Well-proportioned and comfortable, these chairs work beautifully around a dining table but would also be effective in a library or conference setting where symmetry and presence matter.
