$8,995

An English Georgian period small oak buffet from the 18th century, with double doors, drawers, arching motifs and brass Chippendale style hardware. Created in England during the Georgian era in the 18th century, this small oak buffet features a rectangular top sitting above a pair of wide doors carved with arching motifs. These doors open to reveal inner shelves offering convenient storage opportunities while the lower section showcases three drawers bordered by thin frames. They are each fitted with a brass Chippendale style handle. The apron is carved with motifs responding to the doors' décor beautifully. The sides are simply made of recessed panels and the back reveals the piece's good age. With its clean lines, small proportions and good age, this English Georgian period oak two-door and three drawers buffet from the 18th century will make for a great addition to any home, particularly displayed in a living room.
