SMALL LOUIS PHILIPPE MIRROR WITH BLACK AND SILVERED FRAME, 19TH CENTURY

$1,500

A petite Louis Philippe mirror from 19th-century France, distinguished by its rounded upper corners and subtly stepped frame. The surround features an outer border finished in deep black, enclosing a silvered inner band with a basketweave-like textured pattern that lends depth and visual interest. The combination of black and silver finishes creates a refined contrast, highlighting the mirror's elegant proportions.

Retaining its original glass, the mirror surface displays light speckling and age marks, characteristic of antique silvering and adding to its authenticity. The wooden backboards remain intact, showing the wear of time and original construction methods. At just under 22 inches in height, this mirror is ideal for use in smaller spaces — above a console, in a powder room, or grouped with other mirrors in a decorative arrangement.

Its compact size, classic Louis Philippe profile, and softly aged patina make it a versatile accent piece, blending effortlessly into both traditional and modern interiors while bringing with it the understated sophistication of 19th-century French design.
