SPANISH GILT METAL LEAF LIGHT FIXTURE WITH FROSTED GLASS, CIRCA 1950-1960

$1,975

Radiating with sculptural flair, this Spanish gilt metal light fixture from circa 1950-1960 takes inspiration from classical foliate motifs and midcentury craftsmanship. The circular form features a sunburst of hand-shaped metal leaves—each individually cut and curled—arranged in a rhythmic crown-like pattern. The gilt finish shows gentle patination, adding warmth and age to the surface while enhancing the texture of the leafwork.

At the base, a frosted glass diffuser softens the light from a single bulb (housed within the concealed interior), casting a gentle, ambient glow downward. The fixture hangs from a short chain and includes its original canopy, both in coordinating gilt tones. Compact in scale at 6.5 inches wide and 4 inches high, this piece is well-suited to intimate spaces—such as an entryway, powder room, or layered into a series over a kitchen counter or hallway.

Its elegant proportions and decorative detailing make it a versatile accent, bridging Spanish Revival sensibilities with modern interiors seeking vintage charm and character. It has been professionally rewired for the USA.
