WEDGWOOD CANEWARE 1850S CHEESE DOME WITH COW AND LOW-RELIEF DAIRY ACTIVITIES

$3,800

A Wedgwood Caneware cheese dish and domed lid from circa 1850 with cow and low-relief dairy activities. Attracting our eye with its delicate detailing, this Wedgwood Caneware cheese dome from circa 1850 embodies the charm of 19th-century English craftsmanship. The glaze, a soothing beige/cream tone, complements the intricate low-relief dairy activities that adorn the body of the dome. A majestic cow graces the top, serving as both a handle and a focal point, exuding rustic elegance. The low-relief scenes on the dome depict various dairy activities, capturing the bucolic essence of rural life. These intricate carvings not only add visual interest but also showcase Wedgwood's exceptional attention to detail and mastery of ceramic artistry. The cheese dish itself, with its smooth, rounded form, provides a perfect canvas for these pastoral scenes, making it a delightful addition to any collection. This Wedgwood Caneware cheese dish will bring a touch of antique charm to any kitchen or dining room. Its functional design, combined with its decorative appeal, makes it ideal for serving cheese in style or as a unique display piece. Whether used for special occasions or as an everyday accent, this piece is sure to be a conversation starter, celebrating both historical craftsmanship and the simple joys of dairy life.
