WHITE PAINTED METAL LANTERN WITH GLASS PANELS AND PAGODA TOP, USA WIRED

$2,450

This Midcentury white painted metal lantern offers a striking combination of architectural lines, soft curves, and polished details, making it a versatile statement piece in both traditional and contemporary spaces. The crisp white finish gives it a clean, updated feel, while the gently flared pagoda-style top and scalloped details add a subtle decorative rhythm around the perimeter. Four clear glass panels enclose the interior structure, allowing light to flow freely while protecting the fixture inside.

At the center, a candelabra-style assembly features four upright lights with classic white sleeves and brass-toned fittings. The matching canopy and chain add continuity in finish and tone, lending a sense of refinement to the otherwise playful geometry of the form. Designed to be suspended overhead, this lantern would suit an entryway, stairwell, powder room, or breakfast nook—any space that benefits from both ambient lighting and strong visual presence.

The lantern is wired for use in the United States and ready to hang. A seamless blend of classic shape and clean color.
